Some Reminiscences.

PORCH DE LOUX, March 7, 1896.
To the Editor of The Republican.

I feel somewhat enchanted at the near approach of spring. The mountains, glades and glens have laid their lovely fetters by, and the silence and monotony which universally prevailed is beginning to be interrupted by the shrill cries of birds of passage seeking more temperate climes, while the feathered warblers are beginning to chant their tuneful lays from their favorite boughs. The orchard trees are being enameled with bloom, and the snow-white petals spring up.

Aurora has, indeed, risen, and is beginning to diffuse around her joy and festivity, and all nature seems to be animated with her first rays, and it certainly would take some rooted melancholy at the heart, when all nature seems smiling about us, to hinder us from joining the universal chorus of joy.

Your correspondent has just returned from Walnut Shade. The effluence of flowers, the old homestead near by, where I perfected my citizenship 55 years ago, and that excessive joy and rapturous transport that overshadowed me, are not soon forgotten. Yes; I was carried back to the halcyon days of childhood and youth, when the whole year was a round of pleasure. I seem to speak of a father, whose voice was long since hushed; of a mother, whose loved form we see no more, and over whose grave the flowers have bloomed and faded for 29 years; of brothers and sisters, of whom but a remnant remains. Others have gone to that bourn from whence no travelers will ever return. And where are my schoolmates and the friends of my youth? Scattered like the leaves of autumn! And the few that remain are changed almost beyond recognition. W. A. Keithly, L. H. Jennings, J. V. Lewalle, Mrs. Adalade Wood; Z. D. Stockstill, William Wood and my venerable friend, S. T.
Weatherman, and wife, are about all of that familiar throng that are left on this side of the Mystic River to cheer me on my weary pilgrimage.

But in fancy I can see them all again, in school or church, or hear their voices commingled with the gentle murmurs of the shady brooks and streamlets, upon whose mossy banks we often congregated in days of yore; and that sweet remembrance will cheer me through the "valley of the shadow of death." I often find solace in the words of the old poem:

"How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood When fond recollection presents them to view."

Now, in conclusion, gentle reader, allow me to bid you adieu, and hope that "ye editor" may roll in wealth and sip the sweet nectar presented by the fair hand of rosy prosperity.

Yours, etc., W. J. KEITHLEY.

Exhibition at Kirbyville
Correspondence of The Republican.

Mr. J. B. Hicks concluded his successful school at Kirbyville on Wednesday of last week. A great number came in the afternoon to witness the final examination and to partake of the candy which Mr.
Hicks so bountifully distributed. The examination was very interesting to the many who were surprised to witness the wonderful advancement made by the pupils, and betokened the patience and thoroughness of their tutor's modes of instruction.

There were many sad faces when Mr.
Hicks dismissed them for the last time, and said the last good-bye.

At night the school, with the help of the Kirbyville minstrel troupe, gave an entertainment which interested and amused the largest audience that has congregated in the school house for a long time. The prettiest part of the programme was the work of the little ones, and the little Fourth reader class read some pieces in concert that pleased all by their perfect rendition. We have also some essays of note. The Misses Mattie Brazel, Maude Davis and Bertie Snapp read some original productions, marked by clear thought and perfect delivery. There were some very interesting dialogues, and the elocutionary skill of Millard Jackson and Owen McClary, two brothers in the pedagogic world, who kindly assisted Mr. Hicks, elicited great admiration. Some gray heads bowed down when the lovely poem of "The Challenge" with its touching references to the blue and the gray, "Dixie" and "Yankee Doodle," was delivered by Mr. Owen McClary, and old hearts beat true again to the thrilling incidents of "Sheridan's Ride," which Mr. Millard Jackson rendered very impressively.

The minstrel troupe was, as usual, highly amusing. It took some time to recognize, in the two diminutive darkies who played the violins, Masters Jack and Eugene Vanzandt. Willie Middleton, with his banjo, won loud and repeated applause as "Sambo," and should "Wild Bill" take up black race work as a profession, his future success would be assured. In the large audience many familiar faces were noticed, conspicuous among them being that of Mr. A. L. Reich, who rode 45 miles in order to be present, and suffice to say his welcome was as warm as the most fastidious could desire. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Childers, from Proteem, were also there, and others who were strangers to the "visitor within the gates."

Simon S. Harman, of Tunnoton, West Va., has been subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about twelve hours as much as some do when they die. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than any thing else has ever done for me." For sale

Correspondence of The Republican.

As your former correspondent seems to have retired from the journalistic world, I will try to give you a few items.

Mr. Steuben Pleake, brother of Charles Pleake, is now living on the Bartholomew place, which he has rented for the coming year.

Married—On Sunday, March 8—At the residence of Mrs. Polly Hall, E.
D. Jackson, of this place, and Miss Orpha Hall, who has been living in Springfield for the past year. A large crowd was in attendance. Rev.
Thomas Stevens, the bride's grandfather, performed the ceremony, after which the bride's mother, and Miss Lucy Jackson, the bridegroom's sister, the names of those who provided the dinner is sufficient evidence of its being excellent, without further explanation. The following day the "infat" was held at the residence of the bridegroom's father, after which the newly married couple returned to their home across Turkey creek, near White river. May success and pleasure for all time to come be their happy fate is the wish of their many friends and relatives.

J. R. Petterson, Mr. Branson's entering merchant, spent a few hours with us last Friday perfecting some business matters. He says business is livelier than ever, and that he has more goods than he can get in his store building.

Mr. Goldberry, of the Goldberry mercantile company, has been in Kansas City for the past week.

Wesley Cottrell, our accommodating shoemaker and barber, is now occupying his new residence just north of town, which has recently been completed. He gave a dance last Friday night, which the young folks enjoyed very much. The nice, cordial manner in which Mr. and Mrs.
Cottrell entertained those present, made our correspondent think of the good old days of yore.

Thomas Henry Warren, who has been visiting his uncle, Harden Warren, for the past three months, has departed for his home in Liberty, Clay county, Missouri. He is a nice, inoffensive gentleman, and gained many friends while here in our midst.

We noticed Miss Irene Bracken in this vicinity one day last week.

Mr. William Jackson sold $1,000 worth of cattle last long since. William is one among many of our enterprising men in this "neck of the woods."

Professor A. J. Brazel went to Cedar Creek last Friday to assist his uncle, G. W. Vanzandt, to open up his new stock of goods and arrange them.

A most enjoyable dance was held at the residence of J. R. Vanzandt, Jr., last Monday.

Miss Mamie Prather and her sister.
Dena, were guests at the "Eastern hotel" a few days last week. At one time they resided in our little village, and all the young folks were pleased to have them among them once more, as they possess the ability of making all happy with whom they may meet, and more especially the witty sayings of Miss Mamie are admired by all who know her.

home, by the Rev. U. G. Johnson. Your long and happy life.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Jackson have taken Mr. Sam Jackson's three little children to care for.

Oats are nearly all sown.
Andy Jackson has 10 acres of new ground plowed. Andy says he will plant corn soon.

U. G. Johnson and son made a trip to the Queen City last week, where they traded some.

Mr. Frank Price has moved on his homestead.

Preaching on Sunday at the school house by the Rev. U. G. Johnson to a large congregation.

Mr. Adam Hughes passed through on Sunday to the Bryant school district to teach one month's school.
Adam is a good teacher, and well liked by all who know him.

Judge U. G. Johnson had the misfortune to have one of his horses break a leg last week. W. H. J.

Not to be trifled with.
From the Cincinnati Gazette.

Will people never learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling symptoms. Beyond this, there are to-day countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F. V. Baldwin.

agent for D. M. Ferry, the largest and best seed company in the United States, whose seeds are the most celebrated, and never fail to give entire and seeds from inferior houses when you can get the best at John T. Dick-enson's store, noted for the best and cheapest of everything.

Strayed.

ing me of where she is, or returning her, will be liberally paid for their
